TOWN MEETING ISSUE. These homes on Whittier Court will be the subject of discussion at the special town meeting Monday night. The school department wants to obtain the property for expansion of the Central school. The Finance committee and selectmen want the school authorities to negotiate the purchase of the property and elimination of any eminent domain proceedings.

FinCom Holds Key To Monday Meeting

The Finance committee, which holds the key, will allow some articles in the special town meeting Monday night to reach the floor for debate, but with reservations.

The special session, with almost as many articles as the annual town meeting in March, is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium in the East Junior High school. A quorum of 350 is needed and town officials are somewhat concerned about attendance.

Dr. Albert J. Greenberg, chairman of the finance committee, reported Wednesday, that his group had not made a final decision on the major financial items concerning the expansion of the Central school.

He said additional discussions were scheduled with Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert and Town Manager J. Maynard Austin, regarding the request for planning funds for the school addition and acquisition of land for the school.

Greenberg said he would discuss with Dr. Seifert amendment of the article seeking $80,000 for preliminary drawing and architectural fees. At present the school department wants $80,000. The FinCom wants the figure reduced to $10,000-$12,000 and then will allow the issue to be heard.

As for the land acquisition, obtaining property on Whittier Court, the FinCom wants a negotiated figure and is opposed to any eminent domain proceedings.

Dr. Greenberg said that his committee, which ultimately may disapprove the articles in principal, would still allow the issues to reach the floor. Town bylaws allow

Why Central? Dr. Seifert Explains

"Why should Central school get the treatment first?"

This question has popped up wherever there is discussion of articles for undating and expansion of Central School, and new Superintendent Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert says he is eager to field the question.

The questioners are mostly citizens living outside of the Central school district who remember last year's study of school population needs which stated that Sanborn and South, as well as Central, should have expansions. They evidently want to know whether the decision of put Central first was just an alphabetical one. Some also ask if the town shouldn't just update Central, if it's old-fashioned, and get on with addi-

Bancroft Is A Tour Stop

So many educators, architects and out-of-town officials want to visit Andover's new Bancroft school that Principal Earl Simon is instituting twice-monthly regular visitors' tours to control visitations and make them more productive.

Simon says nearly 500 visitors came to Bancroft since last spring, including a number of them from foreign countries. News of the open-concept school and its program has gotten around.

Simon's aim is to provide seriously interested visitors with a real opportunity to see the school in action, but also to protect the school children and staff from the distraction of an uncontrolled trickle of visitors. Tours will be limited to 20 persons, by appointment, on two specified days each month.

And who will lead the tours? Simon grins. He told the school committee last week that he had an ideally qualified person. Mrs. Emil Hervol, a Bancroft school mother with a master's degree in education and teacher's aide experience, watched the construction of the Bancroft school with particular interest from the first spadeful of dirt; her husband was the structural engineer for the job!

The school committee unanimously approved Simon's plans for tours. One morning and one afternoon tour can be run on the appointed days. Visitors will mainly hear about the school's curriculum from the principal, about the physical facilities from Mrs. Hervol, who will lead them through the school after a 15 minute

Town Gets Substantial CD Funds

Andover was among the highest recipient of federal surplus property received through the state civil defense agency in 1969.

Through the efforts of Burton B. Batcheller, civil defense director, the town received two generators and trailers valued at $92,200 when new, according to statistics released this week by the agency. For the two units, to be used in the new public safety center on North Main street, the town paid $204.

Other materials received by the town through civil defense funds brought the total equipment value received by the town to $94,840.11.

The generators will be placed in the new building to provide power to the police and fire departments, as well as the civil defense headquarters, located in the same building, in case of emergency.

Batcheller said the two units, mounted on trailers, are now in Andover and crated ready for emergency installation.

Andover was third in the amount of equipment obtained. Somerset, with a quantity of electronic equipment was first and Barnstable county second.

Batcheller noted that the acquisition of the property was a good find for the town. While its original value has probably decreased, as listed by the agency, its value to the town would be substantially the same.

It eliminates the necessity of obtaining generators to provide emergency power, which would be required when the new public safety

REPAIR WORK. Construction workers are shown at the intersection of Bartlet and Chestnut streets making repairs to the Rogers Brook project. Settling of the construction which took place a year ago was ordered by state officials. New pavement and other work has been underway this week.

Rogers Brook Settles Down

Rogers Brook is settled!

For Andover natives, that comment may be somewhat of a relief, but for newcomers, let it be known that for years the troublesome little waterway, which flooded areas in the center of town, has been the subject of consternation for some time.

Over a period of a few years, the state and the town have appropriated funds to put the whole darn periodic mess of water into a pipe and get it into the Shawsheen River as quickly and unflooding as possible.

This has been done in two stages.

During the past week, stage two of piping the brook to the Shawsheen, was fixed up by contractors, ordered in by the state to improve conditions caused by the settling of areas worked on in the second stage of construction.

Workmen dug up sections in front of town hall, at the intersection of Bartlet and Chestnut streets and along Whittier Court, where a year ago giant excavations were necessitated to place the six-foot diameter pipes to contain the flow of water from the brook.

State officials, according to Town Manager J. Maynard Austin, had visited the areas and found the settling process and ordered contractors in to make remedies.

The problem was not serious, but enough to warrant attention and in the areas affected, the preliminary pavement was removed completely, new foundations provided and a firm hot top base put

Continuing Education Together

Two Andover young ladies are continuing their educational pursuits at Marymount College, Tarrytown, N. Y., but it is unique in that they have been classmates for 14 years.

Mary M. Doherty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Doherty, 9 Juniper Road and Beth Cronin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah B. Cronin, 32 Lincoln Circle are freshman at the New York college.

They began school in St. Augustin's at the kindergarten level and are June graduates of Our Lady of Nazareth Academy in Wakefield.

The percentage of unemployment insurance benefit recipients in relation to the number of people in the Nation so covered, fell to 2.1 percent during fiscal year 1969. This is the lowest recorded rate since World War II.

Summer Workshops

Where Have All The Hours Gone?

By Helen M. Eccles

Curriculum development takes time. Groups of Andover teachers are more and more involving themselves in selecting, developing and improving the curricula that make up the educational programs of Andover students. Changes in curricula, in turn, demand more time, for teachers to familiarize themselves with new programs, new materials, new methods.

In the past three years, summer workshops have provided the hours needed for curriculum development, particularly at the elementary level, which chooses to move into its continuous progress educational program with a caterpillar, instead of a catapult, approach. Deliberate speed.

Four teacher workshops were operating this past summer, and the school committee last week heard reports from the elementary mathematics workshop, a group of 13 teachers representing every elementary school, and from the reading workshop, a group of 29 teachers.

School committee members heard from the workshops in social studies and family living curricula at the previous meeting, as reported in the last two issues of the TOWNSMAN.

An issue which the school committee and administration must face, and say they will resolve in one of the next two meetings is this:

Where will all the hours come from to get teachers in each area or field of study together, to plot a 13-year sequential course of study? For that is the strategy.

But what will be the tactics? Will it be more summer workshops, involving groups of teachers, summer budgets? Will it be inservice programs that can involve all the teachers in each area of expertise at the same time? Inservice programs mean release-time for pupils. Once a week? Or less often?

Reading, math, social studies, family living - the teachers involved in all of them, are going to want to spread the word; meanwhile, the administration concern is to have the K-12 curriculum caterpillar move all its legs together, and be all of one color, instead of sectioned off into three, like the familiar brown-and-black-woolly caterpillar. So there may be some modification of work already done in curriculum development, for smooth "articulation" of the educational caterpillar.

Another question that coordinating groups of teachers will have to study is articulation of the pupils' day, to balance the demands of different fields of study on the child's time.

The administration is presently grappling with the fuzzy beast, and will be bringing recommendations - on where the hours are coming from - to the School Committee at its Oct. 7 meeting at West school, or to the following one.

The curriculum caterpillar needs lots of legs to hold it up from one end to the other. Looks like more and more teachers will be involved in shaping the curriculum. Looks like work. Looks interesting.

More Workshop Reports

Miss Joyce Britton reported to the last meeting that the second year of the mathematics summer workshop had developed a curriculum comprised of 18 levels of skill, using various texts at each level, plus films and manipulative material such as cuisonniere rods, puzzles and games, useful as visual aids to reinforce the understanding of the slower math learner and as individual progress tools for the faster learner. Miss Britton explained that the workshop's purpose was to develop an individualized program so that students can go from one level of skills to another, as each is mastered, and to comprehend mathematics as a system. Another purpose was training of teachers in the workshop.

Miss Britton stressed that further development, was needed, of a record-keeping system on each student's progress, plus a solid testing program, to make the program most useful. She also stressed the need of articulation with 7th grade math programs, and an inservice program to familiarize all elementary teachers with the new math curriculum, before they taught it.

The reading supervisor, Mrs. Theresa Murphy, reported that Andover's third summer of reading workshops had resulted in specific steps and materials so that any teachers could operate an individual reading program. The three summers of the workshop in reading, Mrs. Murphy told the committee members, have been devoted to acquainting various participating teachers with 24 levels of reading skills, analyzing various reading materials, to determine which texts do the best job of presenting the various skills, and to developing a testing program which can pinpoint and diagnose Andover children's reading weaknesses early in the game.

She reminded them that the first individualized reading materials were presented to the schools by the Parent Teacher Association. Now Andover has a reading specialist in each school, she pointed out, and is able to do a far better job with each student's reading program than ever before.

After these reports, as in the workshop reports of the previous meeting, the school committee registered appreciation to the faculty members involved in the work, and a concern to extend the benefits throughout the system.

the FinCom to prevent such action at a special town meeting, simply by disapproval.

Dr. Greenberg was somewhat upset with the school department over the Central school issue. He said that in discussions, it was suggested that an alternate site might be best and a new school built to accommodate 750 to 900 pupils.

He said the school people were firm in their requests for the Central school addition. The FinCom chairman said they were told that if failure to get the funds this Monday, then the issue would go back to the voters in March.

What happens if the overcrowding continues?

Then there will be double sessions, the FinCom was told.

"Frankly, I think they (school department) don't know where they are going. They came in at the last minute with this proposal and they have no alternatives. What they are telling the town is we want the Central or nothing and the kids can go on double sessions. I don't buy that," Dr. Greenberg said.

There will be several zoning issues facing the voters, all submitted by the planning board. Most controversial among them will be the proposal by C. Lincoln Giles, to use the Curran estate on North Main street for apartments. Abutters opposed the proposal at planning board hearing this week.

As for other financial items, the FinCom has approved many but has disapproved three inserted in the warrant by former Town Manager Richard J. Bowen.

One item, to pay back bills will be amended. An item in the article, to pay Thompson's for a back bill for newspapers obtained by Memorial Hall library, will be amended to reduce the amount and remove 1969 bills which can be paid out of the current year account of the library.

The three articles by Bowen deal with lapsing money for a new town hall, which the FinCom says is illegal, another is an appropriation to paint the trim on the town hall and install storm windows.

As for this, the FinCom feels that such an item can wait until March and a determination as to the future of the town hall after the police move and the fire station is demolished.

The request for $3,000 to provide spring or well water was turned down by the FinCom, feeling that it would be impossible to accomplish.

The article was submitted by those opposed to fluoride in the public water supply and who claim the town is constitutionally obliged to provide water free of artificial fluoride.

Dr. Greenberg said that as the matter stands, there is no way of determining where to put wells, or where to make the water available and also that possibly $3,000 would not be sufficient.

This means that the FinCom action will prohibit the matter from reaching town meeting floor.

Other items approved by the FinCom include $68,000 for a sewer project on Chestnut street, $6,500 to demolish the Central fire station, a $12,500 washout article for the West school addition, correcting the bonding arrangements and $42,500 transfer of money to the conservation commission.

Dr. Greenberg was concerned about obtaining a quorum to start the meeting and then keeping it long enough to get through the almost 40 articles. Questioning of a quorum during the session and finding less than the necessary 350 voters would result in either a continuance to another night or total adjournment.

Some men with a high aim in life never get a chance to shoot.

Coffee was taken from Ethiopia to Arabia, 500 A.D. where it was first cultivated. Shipments reached Europe in the 1700s; the Dutch introduced it to Ceylon and Java, and a single tree in Amsterdam is the source of most of the coffee trees in this hemisphere, the Massachusetts Audubon Society says.

orientation from Simon. Mrs. Hervol will explain the architectural philosophy and the structural features of Bancroft, and give them a chance to observe the interaction of the children, the educational program and the school environment. Visitors then will have another chance to meet with Simon after their tour, for questions and discussion. The school may develop explanatory brochures whose nominal cost would pay for printing expenses.

Mrs. Hervol told the TOWNSMAN this week that she already has a deskful of requests for the tours. She said she was excited by the prospect and felt she had a lot of homework to do before they began. She spent an hour this week talking to Architect William Warner of Providence, and her husband was drilling her on the building's structural details. If anyone asks her about the "modulus of elasticity" of the steel and wood, she'll be ready.

But visitors are more likely to stand in the library, the heart of the school, and wonder why an open concept school of more than 500 kids isn't noisier. Is it the curriculum program - the architecture - a magic carpet? Maybe all three. Ask Mrs. Hervol.

ROGERS BROOK

Also found by the state officials, was that some of the original design needed correction, according to Mr. Austin.

This also has been taken care of in the corrective procedures this week.

Corrected were the concrete facing at the entrance of the culvert on Whittier Court, and also some of the reinforcing steel rods.

All of this was a result of an inspection by state engineers, who ordered the corrective procedures.

The pun in the opening lines is intended, but not meant.

Rogers Brook is really not settled completely - only two-thirds.

A third and final stage of construction is necessary to enclose the problem brook completely, before the difficulties caused by thaws, heavy rains or sudden storms is relieved.

If and when that comes to pass, then Andover residents (one might even assume newspapers) will have lost a topic to while away the hours.

Rogers Brook - a waterway to which Indians can still pick alewives without license, according to town laws - may one day disappear.

Come to think of it, with all the thousands of dollars spent, suppose the Indians decide to fish and the brook is now all enclosed?

BANDAGE IT

"Mommy, Mommy, I hurt my arm." This is a common cry we often hear from our children. As a good parent, you would investigate the area and bandage it if it were cut or scraped. Too often though, our children lose or tear loose the bandage and the cut is then exposed.

The surest way to keep the dressing in place and to keep the area clean is to secure it with an elastic bandage. This type of bandage will not only give you the assurance that the dressing will stay in place and the cut area kept clean, but it will provide controlled support to the area where it is applied.

There are many other uses for elastic bandages and they are available in several different sizes. Stop in and let us recommend the right size for your needs.

Girls' Outing Club Visits Plum Island

The newly organized Andover YMCA Girls' Outing Club, for girls in grades 4-6 traveled to the Plum Island State Reservation on Saturday for its first program. Twenty-eight were in attendance and enjoyed a program at the beach.

Miss Joyce Britton, club coordinator, was in charge assisted by the following mothers: Mrs. Helen Chapell, Mrs. Janet Davis, and Mrs. Anne Paradis. On the previous Tuesday evening, club members and their mothers attended a meeting at the YMCA with plans for fall term club activities being discussed.

The next outing will be a trip to the Flume in New Hampshire on Oct. 11. Details will be mailed to club members.

Intramurals Underway

The after school intramural sports program for boys has begun at the Andover West Junior High school.

The program consisting of touch football and tennis is designed to give those boys who do not participate in inter-scholastic sports an opportunity to engage in another form of athletic activity.

The program is held twice a week on Tuesday and Wednesday. Students who use the school buses will be dismissed in time to take the late bus at 3:30. Parents are asked to urge their children to participate in this program.

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

Want to go out to lunch? For Andover's "over-60" populace, for fifty cents you may go out to eat-out to have lunch with your friends. A good, hot meal with congenial company will be available next Tuesday, Oct. 7, at the Vocational High School, the regular monthly luncheon of the Haven Associates. Reservations are necessary and may be made by phone at The Haven 475-3968.

Want to go out for the day? An all-day trip to Hanover, N. H. is planned for Thursday, Oct. 16, leaving the Haven at 10 that morning and returning late in the afternoon. The four dollar bus fare is payable at the time of reservation. Not only is the group planning lunch at the Hanover Inn, but there will be another surprise stop along the way home. For a day of viewing the beautiful fall foliage and visiting with your friends, this is a great opportunity. Space is limited and you must make reservations at The Haven and you must make them soon.

The Haven newsletter for October will be available the end of the week.

Observes 40th Year At Bell Labs

Edwin H. Perkins of 13 Bowdoin Road, Ipswich, recently celebrated his 40th anniversary of service with Bell Telephone Laboratories. He is supervisor of the Type N Carrier Repeater Group at the Merrimack Valley Laboratory, here.

Since joining Bell Laboratories in 1929, Mr. Perkins has been engaged in the development of transmission system components and circuits. For many years he was concerned with the theory and development of feedback amplifiers and regulating circuits for telephone wire and cable systems. In 1948 he designed the repeater for the Type N Carrier System, which is still a major link in the intercity telephone complex. In 1955 he was transfered to the newly formed Merrimack Valley Laboratory of Bell Labs and was placed in charge of the development of the Type P Carrier System for rural areas. This was the first Bell System Carrier system to use transistors. He currently is responsible for the design of N2 Repeaters and for coordination of Type N Carrier Systems in the field. He holds three patents.

A native of Georgetown, Mr. Perkins received his B.S. and M.S. degrees from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1929 and 1930, respectively. He is a Senior Member of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers and a member of the Institute's Circuits Committee.

Mr. Perkins and his wife, Ruth, have lived in Ipswich for one year. They have two children, Edwina and Ralph. The Perkins family formerly lived in Andover, for 13 years.

Mr. Perkins is a member of the Charles C. Dame Masonic Lodge in Georgetown, and is Past Master of Congdon Lodge #201 in Bernardsville, N. J. He retired from the U.S.A.F. Reserves with the rank of Lt. Col., having 30 years of reserve service and four years of active duty in World War II. He currently is Vice Commander of the Merrimack River Squadron of the U. S. Power Squadrons, and his hobby is sailing.

Most people have poetry in their souls — all but a few have sense enough to keep it there.

Following the custom recently instituted at Temple Emanuel, Yizkor Memorial prayers will be recited at the conclusion of this Friday evening worship service.

On Saturday morning, the eighth day of the festival, Sabbath and Succoth Services will begin at 10:30 a.m. Yizkor Memorial prayers will also be included.

Services will be conducted by Rabbi Harry A. Roth and Cantor Irving Shuman, with Mrs. Joan Maynard at the organ.

Beauty MAGIC

By Mary

It very rarely happens that eyeglasses actually flatter a face, therefore, choose your glasses with great discretion and good taste. You should choose eyeglasses according to the shape of your face; rectangular, round or oval. Always try them on while observing yourself both full face and profile in the mirror. Try to stay away from glasses that are heavily ornamented. They only draw more attention to the fact you're wearing spectacles. You can still have attractive frames without all those imitation diamonds and other such fancies. Give your eyes the most beautiful look you can by selecting carefully the eyeglasses that best suit you.

Keep your hair well coiffed. Make an appointment at CAPILO HAIRSTYLISTS, 2 Riverina Rd., Shawsheen-Andover. Tel. 475-1639. Open 9-6. Friday 9-8. Coloring . . . Cutting . . . Permanents . . . Styling . . . Hairpieces.

Superintendent PTA Speaker

On Oct. 1, the West Elementary School PTA will be presenting its first meeting of the year. This meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. with the annual pot luck supper. After the meal, a program will be conducted with Dr. Kenneth Seifert, newly appointed superintendent of schools, as guest speaker and he will give his comments concerning future plans for elementary schools.

The program is being arranged by a committee which includes: Harold Keegan, PTA president; Howard D. Ponty, first vice president; Jerry Hochschwender, second vice president; Mrs. Claire Gyrsting, secretary; Mrs. Denise Sohler, treasurer and Miss Isabelle Dobbie, principal of the West Elementary School.

Many a man looks thoughtful—and then lets it go at that.

School Personnel Changes Approved By Committee

Recent school department appointments approved by the school committee are: Warren Naylor, teacher aide at West Junior High, Mrs. Audrey Cormier, teacher aide, high school; Mrs. Ansi DeCesare, dramatics, West Junior High, 5th step, $497; Mrs. Nora Harrison, school newspaper West Junior High, 2nd step, $260; Anthony Covino, debating, West Junior High, 1st step, $252.

Resignations accepted were those of Charles Galley, teacher aide at West Junior High, Mrs. Janet Luiz, biology, high school; Mrs. Ann Porter, librarian, high school and Mrs. Mary Boyle, who is retiring from the Stowe School staff, but will continue as a substitute until her replacement is found.

The school committee held over approval of Mrs. Elizabeth Hocknell's appointment, as 7th and 8th grade Health Education at West Junior High, at a salary of $2,233. The committee agreed with Mrs. Virginia Cole's motion to table this request. Her reason: Since the committee is very interested in the development of the health program, it wants to carefully check the qualifications of new appointments in this field; this candidate's training has been in economics and science and the committee wants more assurance of the appropriateness of an appointment in the field of health.

The school committee also tabled Athletic Director Donald Dunn's request for creation of the new position of assistant basketball coach for 10th grade, pending clarification.

Their concern seemed to be for uniformity, or a good reason for the lack of it; granting the interest of a large number of present tenth graders in basketball, the committee questioned creating a specific position of "10th grade assistant basketball coach", instead of "assistant basketball coach" who would coach tenth graders. Superintendent Kenneth R. Seifert will seek clarification from Dunn before the next meeting.

The school committee approved a Board of Health German measles clinic in the schools, and a mumps clinic, for pupils of junior high school age.

tions to other schools that need them.

Superintendent Seifert put on his glove Wednesday to field both questions. He told the TOWNSMAN he wanted the public to clearly understand the school administration's reasons for giving the Central school addition first priority. Perhaps Seifert was a bit discouraged when only 16 persons showed up at the warrant hearing, half of them officials.

Seifert's points:

(1) Sanborn, as well as West, will be relieved by the opening of the West school addition, now under construction.

(2) South is relieved for now by Bancroft.

(3) Central is right in the middle. It's plant is not only overcrowded, but inadequate to the educational programs the town has adopted, and is moving into. It must be modernized.

Central's worst overcrowding was relieved by redistricting some pupils to Bancroft, but that school will soon need those spaces back.

(4) To modernize the present shell of Central to make it adequate to the continuous progress educational program, without expanding it, would require reducing its pupil capacity by at least 100 pupils.

Thus, said Seifert, the school committee and administration commitment to update and expand Central first.

Philharmonic To Present First Concert On Nov. 8

The Merrimack Valley Philharmonic Orchestra, under the direction of Nicholas Van Slyck, will present its first concert of the 1969-70 season in the Merrimack College Chapel, North Andover, on Saturday evening, Nov. 8.

Sponsored by Merrimack College, the program will feature Mendelssohn's Fifth Symphony, "Les Preludes" by Liszt, Von Weber's "Der Freischutz", and Vivaldi's concerto for four solo violins and strings. Rehearsals for this concert are already under way, but additional string players are welcome. They, and anyone else wishing to join the orchestra, should telephone either the president of the society, Mrs. Anthony J. Ippolito or Dr. Ippolito for further information.

Following the initial concert, the orchestra will play for dancing at the annual symphony ball sponsored by the MVPS, at Indian Ridge Country Club, Saturday evening, Nov. 29. Mrs. Michael J. Batal Jr., is chairman for the ball, and tickets are now available for this formal affair, which is always a musical and social success. The society works in conjunction with the Women's Guild of the Merrimack Valley Philharmonic Society to present this annual ball, the one major fund-raising event of the season.

As announced by president, Mrs. Ippolito, additional concert dates for the orchestra's ninth season are as follows:

Sunday, Jan. 11, 1970, at 3:30 in the Andover West Junior High school, a youth concert;

Sunday March 1, at 3:30 in Sander Theatre, Cambridge, sponsored by Milton Academy and presenting the Milton Academy choral society.

Sunday, April 19, at 3:30 in Andover West Junior High school, to be sponsored by the Raytheon Company of Andover.

Season's tickets for the series of four concerts are now available, as well as sponsor applications.

The next meeting of the society will be held on Thursday evening, Oct. 2 at 7:45, in the Lawrence Cooperative Bank conference room, corner of Lawrence and Essex Sts., Lawrence.

LIVING WITH YOUR HEART

Massachusetts Heart Association

Since we have witnessed such exciting and dramatic space achievements during the past year, we should not lose sight of the fact that we still suffer from many unsolved problems - many of them in the areas of medicine and health.

Stroke is still the third largest cause of death in the United States today. Although we cannot control some factors which make us susceptible to stroke, such as our heredity, sex and age, science has demonstrated that there are other factors involved in stroke about which we can do a great deal. In brief, these include keeping blood pressure under control, watching the intake of cholesterol, maintaining normal body weight, stopping the smoking of cigarettes and faithfully undergoing regular annual physical examinations.

Unfortunately, all too few of us observe these precautions. It is easier to adopt the ostrich-in-the-sand attitude and deny that such a catastrophe can happen to us. Therefore, each year several millions of people in the United States are crippled with strokes.

Oxygen Supply To Brain

The human brain must receive an adequate and constant supply of oxygen to function efficiently. This oxygen is carried to the brain in the red blood cells through arteries leading from the heart. A stroke partially or completely cuts off this supply of oxygen to certain areas of the brain.

Strokes can take place in three areas - the arteries of the brain itself, in the large arteries of the neck, and in certain arteries at the base of the brain. The interruption of the blood and oxygen flow through these arteries occurs because of (1) a blood clot forming in the vessel (cerebral thrombosis); (2) a rupture of the blood vessel wall (cerebral hemorrhage); (3) a clot usually formed in the heart, that travels the bloodstream to the brainfeeding vessel and closes it because it is too big to go through(cerebral embolism); or (4) a growth around the vessel, shutting it off through pressure (tumor).

Stroke causes paralysis of the body on the opposite side from the damaged side of the brain. In other words, a stroke to the right side of the brain causes impairment to motor movement on the left side of the body.

Every patient is different in terms of what effect stroke will have. It can bring a degree of weakness or paralysis of the arm and leg; it can result in partial or complete loss of speech, it can cause blindness, usually partial. The patient may lose sensation in half of the body. Mental confusion may set in. And, any particular patient can have any combination of these disabilities.

Hope For Stroke Patient

At this point, it is important to stress that 80 percent of those suffering non-fatal strokes can be rehabilitated. The care of the patient just after the stroke - at the acute stage - is very important. Early return to walking and daily living activities is essential. Efforts should be made to avoid complications which often accompany recovery. These include contracting of muscles, bedsores, disorders of the urinary bladder, dehydration, and weakness of muscles not affected by the stroke.

The team approach to rehabilitation is a major tool used in getting stroke sufferers back into regular living patterns. Although rehabilitation teams are not available everywhere, more and more communities are becoming aware of their lifesaving value and are working to develop them at their local and general hospitals.

The team should include such specialists as a physician and a trained rehabilitation nurse; physical, occupational, and speech therapists; a social worker; a dietitian; and a vocational counselor. Services of psychologists and psychiatrists should be available if necessary to the overall program.

Large sums of money - generous amounts coming from the Heart Association - are spent on research designed to more clearly define the causes of stroke and methods of prevention.

Bancroft PTA To Meet

Bancroft School PTA will hold its first meeting of the season Wednesday, Oct. 22 at the school. A free spaghetti supper and get acquainted session at 6:45 p.m. will be followed by a program.

Andona Ball Planned For Mid - October

Oct. 17 has been selected as the date for the Andona Ball to be held at the Andover Country Club. Couples will dance from 9 to 1 to the music of the John Charles Orchestra at a Cinderella Fantasy. Mrs. Robert Gable and Mrs. Fredrick Nowell are co-chairmen of the event.

The Ball is one of the important projects of the society held to aid in raising funds for their many endeavors aimed at providing greater social, educational, and recreational opportunities for the young people of Andover.

Telephone System Slated For Tests

A new communications system that will help the Bell System take care of customers' burgeoning demands for long distance facilities is being readied for a trial run. It's a microwave system code-named TH3.

The trial will be held, probably later this year, over a route where the deer and the antelope still play - between Amarillo, Texas, and Dodge City, Kansas.

But even though the trial is still to come, Bell System engineers are confident that the system will achieve high reliability. TH3 is a more sophisticated version of its predecessor, TH1. (There never was a TH2.) TH3 equipment will be using solid state circuitry; TH1 uses tube-type circuits. Like TH1, TH3 - when fully operational - will transmit 10,800 simultaneous telephone conversations, giving the Bell System that much more capability to handle long distance calls.

Microwave systems relay communications signals through the air from one radio tower to another until the message reaches its destination.

In addition to telephone calls, TH3 will be able to transmit television and data signals.

Bays of equipment manufactured by Western Electric Company's Kansas City Works are being shipped to the 10 stations along the Amarillo-Dodge City route. There, Western Electric installers are assembling the equipment and Bell Telephone Laboratories engineers are testing performance. The trial will be conducted by the American Telephone and Telegraph Compnay's Long Lines Department, long distance operating unit.

The Bell System has extensive plans for using TH3 microwave systems around the country.

On Drug Abuse

LSD: Will It Turn You On Or Will It Turn On You

No drug has caused more controversy, with the possible exception of marihuana, than the strange compound known as LSD.

Is LSD dangerous?

Definitely yes, says the National Institute of Mental Health, Federal agency focus of a new nationwide attack on the abuse of dangerous drugs and narcotics.

Hospital and other medical studies show that LSD can cause panic, paranoia, and accidental death.

Reactions to taking LSD range from worry, panic, and depression to severe mental derangement.

Days, weeks, even months after a dose of LSD has been taken, the things the user thought that he saw and felt may recur in his mind and make him fear he is going insane.

The physical effects LSD can produce are far from pretty.

Eye pupils dilate, hands and feet shake and tremble uncontrollably, palms turn cold and sweaty, the body shivers and turns chilly, goose pimples pop out, breathing is irregular. There is loss of appetite and nausea; and the pulse and heart rate rise, as does blood pressure.

LSD is short for lysergic acid diethylamide. A man-made chemical first produced in 1938, it was accidentally discovered in 1943 to produce bizarre effects on the mind when a Swiss chemist swallowed some LSD while working in his laboratory. He had strange sensations and felt as if he were flying.

Despite this soaring start, LSD was little explored in following years as far as definitive pharmacological studies in man were concerned. The weird compound lay around, studied by some drugs researchers but ignored by most. Then the wave of far-out experience seekers washed up a few years ago.

LSD became the darling of the daring. It was claimed to give you great feelings and increase many capacities, like sex and creativity.

None of this has proved out. In fact, the reverse may be true. But many fables and fallacies like these have spread about LSD. The following facts come from research, not from fantasy and rumor.

Studies have shown that LSD is more likely to decrease sex interests than to increase them. Paintings, writings, and other works by LSD-users fail to show greater talent; rather, the works are poorer when done "under the influence."

Worse, LSD is dangerous. It can cause panic (fear of losing one's mind), paranoia (suspicion that "they're after me!"), mental derangement, and accidental death.

It has been called the most powerful drug in the world. No wonder: 25 micrograms is an amount almost invisible to the naked eye. Yet this amount will produce an effect in most people.

Classed as a hallucinogen and psychedelic - which mean mind-affecting or mind-altering - LSD is a member of a group of drugs which include other compounds like marihuana, peyote, mescaline, psilocybin, DMT, and STP.

Except for government-approved use for research, LSD is illegal in the United States.

Because LSD is dangerous when not used for careful research under close medical supervision, it is closely regulated by Federal and State laws. These provide stiff penalties for illegal production, sale, other disposition, and, in some cases, for possession or use.

Because more knowledge is needed about this powerful compound, broad scale research is underway to learn fully about its chemistry, animal and human effects, and whether it can have any medical or other real values.

This is another part of the national attack on abuse of narcotics and dangerous drugs of all kinds. On the educational side, newspapers, magazines, radio, and television are enlisting in the fight in a new campaign to provide everyone with accurate information.

Memorial Hall Library

Cookbooks

The cookbooks on display in the outdoor exhibit case at the library are part of a collection which was donated to the library in the summer of 1968. Over two hundred cookbooks become part of the library collection as a result of the settlement of the estate of Miss Adah F. Hall, who passed away in January of 1968, an associate in the Boston firm of Campbell and Hall, Wholesalers to the Book Trade. Miss Hall was an avid collector of cookbooks of all kinds and description. She spent the early part of her life in Andover and the executors of her estate offered the collection to the Memorial Hall Library as a token of her esteem for the town. In addition to the cookbooks in the case outside the library, more may be seen on display inside. The books inside may be borrowed immediately but those outdoors will have to be reserved until the conclusion of the display.

Gandhi's Truth

One hundred years ago this week, on October 2, 1869, one of the most important and beloved persons of modern time was born. Mahatma Gandhi's birth is commemorated this month in the library with an exhibit of books by his biographers and with Gandhi's Autobiography. The best seller, the recently published book by E. H. Erickson titled "Gandhi's Truth" is available but it is necessary to reserve this book. New books about modern India are also on display at this time and may be borrowed immediately.

Grid Anniversary

Did you know that this year marks the 100th year of football on a college campus in America, and that it is also the 50th anniversary of professional football in the United States? An exhibit in the Children's Room at the library, suggested and prepared by Mark Travis, commemorates the events. Mark was assisted in his display by Michael Travis, Eddie Chase and Chris Dyer.

Children's Room

One of the youngsters receiving his first borrower's card in the Children's Room beamed and exclaimed to the librarian: "Boy, now I have my first credit card!"

Do you have a terrible time figuring out what do do for your children's friends when your child has a birthday party? Do you go out of your mind thinking up ways to keep your child quiet when he or she is sick? What about the Sunday School class you must try to teach about the various religious faiths and the story of the United Nations? The library has a solution for you. Use a filmstrip which you may borrow from Memorial Hall, a filmstrip which has stories on it for amusement, or a filmstrip which has lessons in how to make puppets. For older children, there are stories about foreign countries and about the work of the United Nations and even filmstrips to be used in conjunction with particular holidays. "The Christmas in Germany," "Christmas in Mexico," etc. series is especially popular, and young people can learn a great deal about nature by watching and listening to "Woodland Friends" and "Creatures of the Sea." For Thanksgiving the library recommends Sound Filmstrip Set 4, "The Story of the Pilgrims," as well as "The Story of Thanksgiving." It is best to reserve your filmstrips ahead of time. A catalog of what is available is in the library to help you make a selection. The projector and the filmstrips may be borrowed for 24 hours. Reservations can be made through the Audio-visual Dept. from 10-5 any weekday.

GLOBAL SEARCH by Craig Duxbury turns up Panama and Italy for Mrs. Everett Bodge, AFS students Elliseo Pitty of Panama, Giorgio Magnani of Italy, and Rev. J. Everett Bodge, after tea at the home of AFS Committeemember Mrs. Victor Duxbury.

New Students Share Interests

Andover's two new American Field Service students from abroad have much in common - both are boys, both speak similar languages (Spanish and Italian), both tend toward scientific interests.

But Eliseo Pitty comes from a family with ten children while Giorgio Magnani was an only child back in northern Italy. Giorgio is having the new experience of dovetailing into the family of Mr. and Mrs. Donald LeRoy, 7 Gemini Circle, who have two younger sons besides Eric, their high school senior son. Mrs. LeRoy said that having Giorgio was a treat for the whole family, not just Eric. Timothy and Richard are thoroughly enjoying a new and still sympathetic older brother.

Eliseo joins Larry Bodge, also a senior at AHS, as a son of Rev. and Mrs. J. Everett Bodge, and he must feel he's rattling around in such a small family. The Bodges have two older sons, but one is finishing a hitch in the service, while the other is a radio announcer in Keene, N. H. For the Bodges, having "El" in the family bring's it back up to a proper size again.

Neither Larry Bodge nor Eric Leroy could come to Mrs. Victor Duxbury's house for tea this week. Both were at soccer practice at the high school. This makes perfect sense to Eliseo and Giorgio, as soccer is big both in Central and South America and Europe, while football is virtually unknown outside of America. Saturday was the first football game the boys had ever seen.

El finished his high school education in David City, Panama, before coming to Andover for his AFS year abroad. He plans to study electronics, and go into communications. Giorgio has completed four years of "liceo" in Reggio Emilia, 100 miles from Milan.

"Liceo" is equivalent to our high school years plus one; the students have a fifth year before graduation. But university, instead of graduation, awaits those who attended the classical liceo or, like Giorgio, the scientific liceo. Giorgio aims for an engineering degree.

The point of the American Field Service Program, which sponsors year-long or summer-long student visits to other countries, is to foster understanding between peoples. The AFS program provides students the opportunity to be a member of a family in another land, to learn to understand the way other peoples think and act.

The AFS Program has brought El and Giorgio to Andover for a school year; families like the Bodges and the LeRoys open their homes to give both their AFS sons and their own families this opportunity to broaden their understanding. Mrs. LeRoy points out that these boys have come to America with the idea of being ambassadors, of getting to know America and spread understanding about their own country and customs. They will welcome chances to visit other families, for a meal, a day or a weekend, AFS Mother Mrs. LeRoy said; she encourages Andover families to call the homes where the boys are living to extend invitations.

AFS works both ways. Deidre Robinson, now a freshman at Ithaca College, spent last year at school in Switzerland, while Denise Drazy left Andover last February for a year "down under" in New Zealand. Denise will return to the high school soon after Christmas for a final semester, and can let Andover High school students know what its like to be an American AFS-er in another land.

AFS Committeemember Mrs. Duxbury told the TOWNSMAN that the local AFS committee is eager to encourage highschoolers to try out for years abroad, preferably their junior year. Application time for AFS hopefuls is in early fall, so attention ninth-graders, look ahead! If you are interested in junior years abroad through the AFS, talk to an AFS committee member this year.

An international buffet will be served at the Vocational School on Oct. 23, the eve of UN Day, to raise money for the AFS programs next year, Mrs. Duxbury said, and urged its support.

Pumpkins Reaching Market

Large yellow pumpkins, and colorful gourds, traditional harbingers of the Halloween season are among numerous headliners on a full list of "Best Buys" in native produce announced for this week by the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture. Buttercup, butternut, turban and hubbard squash share produce headlines with their Halloween - directed "cousins". All are plentiful and low priced. Ideal weather contributes to an abundant supply of salad ingredients at economical prices, with chicory, escarole, Romaine lettuce, Boston lettuce, tomatoes, cucumbers, and parsley all plentiful. California Wonder peppers are an especially good buy this week along with beets and native sweet corn, which will ironically disappear from the scene very shortly just when at its flavor peak.

Weather conditions have been ideal for apple picking and the harvest is proceeding without interruptions as the supplies of both regular McIntosh and Cortland apples from local orchards continue to build up on produce counters, with prices rated as reasonable. The new cranberry harvest, second largest in history, is developing well, with new cranberries in abundance at reasonable prices. Other produce making the money saving list this week include green, shell, and wax beans, beets, cabbage, broccoli, eggplant, potatoes, carrots, cauliflower and turnips. Eggs continue to be the best protein buy on the market, with mediums offering the largest savings. Hot dogs and green peppers combine nicely for a tasty economical fall supper:

Hard boil six green peppers, then prepare 1-1/3 cups of precooked rice as directed. Then stuff peppers with 4 diced hot dogs mixed with rice, pepper, salt and butter. Spread bread crumbs seasoned with garlic on top. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degree forty minutes in pie pan with 1/4 inch water. Serves 6.

Today's Agri-Fact:

If you're wondering just how many shrimp you get to the pound when you order jumbo, medium and small shrimp, there are fifteen or fewer jumbo shrimp to the pound, ranging all the way down to about 40 small shrimp to the pound. Except in markets near fishing grounds, most shrimp sold over the counter are just the tails.

Garden Club Begins Season

The Andover Garden Club will start it's 42nd year of service on Oct. 7, at 1:30 p.m. at the Andover Country Club.

"The Quest For Beauty," the theme for the afternoon is by Mrs. Marion Tucker Rudkin. Mrs. Rudkin will review B. Hollingsworth's book "Gardening On Main Street" and also give her usual inspirational talk "Life is Like a Garden."

The hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. Arthur A. Collins and Mrs. Harold O. Nadler. The arrangement on the tea table will be done by Mrs. William T. Bride Jr.

The other October dates to be remembered include The Harvest Show on The Boston Common Oct. 7-12. The flower arrangement workshops on the 9th, 16th, 23rd, and 30th. The Horticulture Workshop, at the Waltham Field Station on the 27th and The Northern District annual meeting on the 29th.

How can your Realtor help you if you must move to a new town?

Besides selling your old home, your Realtor can help you find another in the new town. Sometimes he personally knows Realtors there. Or, your Realtor may contact the Real Estate Board in your new location. He will tell them you'll soon be buying there. He will give them a list of your requirements in a house. Town Meeting

A town meeting, designated as special, but provided for by town bylaws, faces the voters of this community Monday night.

There are close to 40 articles on which decisions must be made.

We know it sounds trite to repeat that attendance at town meeting is mandatory and incumbent upon every voter of the community.

But attendance is a must, for in this, the so-called semi-annual town meeting, there are a number of articles which could affect the future of the community.

School issues are prevalent.

Possibly by Monday, the school department or the finance committee could make decisions which would reflect on the relevance of these matters. The school department may be prepared to answer the question of need for acquisition of property adjacent to the Central and East junior high schools. They have been preparing figures and are hopeful of avoiding eminent domain proceedings for the taking of land needed for Central school expansion.

The FinCom could well disapprove financial items in the warrant, thus they may not reach the town meeting floor.

The conservation commission has articles which could cause controversy.

The Planning Board has several articles, dealing with zoning changes, which could change the nature of the community.

These are but a few of the reasons, why Andover voters and taxpayers should attend the town meeting Monday night.

An informed and participating citizen can complain when the annual tax bill comes.

The person who has the "let George do it," attitude, can have his complaints fall on deaf ears.

Town meeting, as awkward as it has become in New England communities, remains among the last vestiges of early Americana. As long as it exists, it is the responsibility of those who subscribe to it, to make sure it works.

Commendable

Communities seldom come up with persons who give of themselves, such as is the case in Andover.

During the past week, a release from the state civil defense agency noted that Andover was among the top agencies in receiving federal surplus property through its civil defense director.

Andover's director, Burton B. Batcheller, obtained for the town two generators, the cost of which was estimated to be in excess of $93,000. For this the town paid the federal government $204.

Alertness in spotting such equipment, valuable and needed by the town, is commendable, and Andover can be grateful to the alertness of a person such as Mr. Batcheller for obtaining such equipment.

The emergency generators will be used in the new public safety building when it is completed.

As civil defense director, Mr. Batcheller is awarded a salary of a minimal nature.

But, as such, he is asked by the town, to be alert to the needs of safeguarding the community, as well as being available to visit surplus property centers when materials become available.

This year, Andover "hit it big," so to speak, since he was there and made claim to the units which will insure continued power to the new police and fire stations, in case of emergency.

In these days of rising community costs, acquisition of needed property at bargain prices, is certainly commendable.

The Boosters

The Andover Boosters club next week will be conducting their annual membership drive.

The drive provides the funds with which the organization provides considerable benefits for the youth of this community.

Founded 21 years ago by a small group of men, principally to provide athletic equipment for the high school football team, the Boosters have now taken on a prominent role in the community by providing for scholarships and several benefits for young people.

Their guidance, both financial, physical and directive, over the years has been most beneficial.

We urge their continued support.

Fire Prevention

Next week is fire prevention week and will be observed throughout Greater Lawrence with a program at the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational Technical high school on Saturday, Oct. 11.

Fire prevention, as part of our daily lives, is of prime importance.

Annually, thousands of lives are lost through carelessness. Accidents on highways command major attention, but fires which take lives, destroy homes and woodlands, reach the general public only when of a spectacular nature.

As an example, an unfortunate blaze in nearby Wilmington a week ago captured national attention when six lives were lost. Cause of the blaze is still under investigation.

We recommend that persons take advantage of the attention called by recognition of National Fire Prevention Week and be sure that all steps are taken to keep home, industry and property safe from disaster.

And, while on the subject, we might commend our local fire department under the direction of Fire Chief Henry L. Hilton for doing an excellent job for the citizens of Andover. Chief Hilton, his officers and firefighters, are constantly alert to inspection of properties for fire prevention. They are prompt and attentive in responding to emergencies.

Townspeople can be thankful for that.

Off The Top Of The Desk

St. Robert Bellarmine church in West Andover, has produced an attractive parish calendar, noting all the parish activities for the year.

The TOWNSMAN is happy to be a part of the calendar, having provided the picture for March, 1970, a reproduction of the Easter picture of Rev. Paul T. Keyes, published this past year. It is montage done by Photographer Richard D. Graber.

The frosty morning this week is a good reminder that winter is just around the corner.

Unfortunately the time has arrived for that usual weekend chore which has been put off, due to the TV baseball or gridiron fare, to get the storm windows ready for placement, along with the myriad of other items incumbent upon the homeowner in preparing for the wintery blasts which are sure to be forthcoming.

But then, maybe it can wait another week - the baseball playoffs and world series start this weekend.

Nature is just about ready to display its annual brilliance. The turning of the leaves to Autumnal hues is upon us and the beauty of the countryside is springing forth.

From appearances, the next week or two should provide for the best viewing and pictorial record of New England in the Autumn, 1969.

Bostonians will get a rare glimpse into yesteryear when The Flying Scotsman, one of the world's most famous steam locomotives, will be in Boston's South Station from Oct. 8-11.

Many youngsters, who have never seen a coal locomotive, will thrill at the sight of this now almost extinct engine, and many adults will reminisce of the past.

The burnished green engine, bearing the gold lettered identification LNER 4472, is hooked to an exciting nine-car exhibition of British goods and history in an unprecedented 2200-mile British American goodwill tour of 12 U. S. cities.

About 10,000 gallons of water will be pumped into the two tenders of the Flying Scotsman every 175 miles along the route by local fire companies, and special anthracite coal will be shoveled aboard by hand at 300-mile intervals.

These special preparations are necessary in today's space age for it has been many years since a coal engine steamed around the country over the rails. They have been replaced by diesel locomotives.

The so-called 'subway alumni' suffered their traditional defeat last Saturday.

Ardent followers of the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame, once again went down to defeat at the hands of Purdue.

It has become almost the traditional game between the two clubs, with Notre Dame, no matter how mighty, failing to get by the Boilermakers. The Irish have failed to win a game on the Purdue home field since 1961.

Can trees commit suicide? Literally yes, a noted tree expert reports.

"One or more big fleshy roots, called girdling roots, grow in winding fashion around the stem. These roots restrict sap flow, kill one limb then another, and finally destroy the trunk area above the girdled point."

Maples - especially Norway and swamp maples - elm, oak, and pine are prone to develop girdling roots. Man is frequently an accessory when he carelessly transplants trees by stuffing roots into a small hole. Tree roots should be spread out radially, not twisted, when planted.

Fall is a good time to look for suicidal tendencies in trees, he said.

NEW CAREER PROGRAMS

In response to the increasing demand for people with nursing care skills for the nation's hospitals, New York City has initiated two New Careers-type programs. These programs will provide more nursing personnel and at the same time build a career ladder from nurse's aide to professional nurse. One program trains experienced nurses' aides to become licensed practical murses (LPN's); the other trains experienced LPN's to become registered nurses (RN's).

League Supports Articles

Mrs. Philip Hanst, president of the League of Women Voters of Andover, announced today the League's support of the following education and conservation articles at the special town meeting Monday, Oct. 6.

Education: After considerable study during 1966 through 1968 the League has attained positions which enable them to support elementary school buildings which provide flexibility and space for new educational concepts. The League also supports, on the elementary level, a maximum class size of 25 and a minimum of 10 classroom professionals per 1000 pupils. The proposed addition to Central School (Article 6) fulfills these objectives. The transfer of control of the Playstead to the school department (Article 8) will enable the town to make the Playstead part of the school site development, but still available to the public for recreational purposes as well as for use by the schools.

Conservation: Because the League supports an active open space land acquisition program, we support the passage of Articles 10, 11, and 12. The acquisition of land near Pomp's Pond (Article 12) is essential to development of this area for conservational and recreational purposes.

NEW BOOSTER. Town Manager J. Maynard Austin, left, became a member of the Andover Boosters club this week, kicking off the annual membership drive by purchasing a membership from Carolyn Davis. Chairman Robert A. Watters of the selectmen renewed his membership by getting his card from Kathy Shea.

Booster Membership Drive Set

The annual Andover Boosters club membership drive will be conducted next week, with high school students making home visitations Oct. 6, 7 and 8.

The goal of the club this year is to increase its annual student-assistance program, one of the many projects undertaken by its membership over the past 21 years.

Robert B. McIntyre, president has noted that the club has contributed heavily toward athletic programs and improvements during its lifetime in Andover.

Last year, he said the club provided $500 scholarships to three youngsters from Andover high school, to continue their education. This year the goal is to increase that effort, as well as provide for other programs.

Since its incorporation in 1948, when a small group of men gathered to form the Boosters, over $60,000 has been expended for the youth of the community. Projects have included athletic equipment for the high school, little league baseball, contributions to the Girls' band, scholarships, basketball and hockey leagues and invitational track meets.

The drive, approved by town officials, will aid the organization in furthering their goals.

A brief history of the organization reveals that 21 years ago, in 1948, a group of men was concerned with a problem confronting the high school football squad - namely, insufficient equipment to properly protect the players. These men, J. Everett Collins, Harold Wennik, Walter Pearson, Charles O. McCullom, Harvey Guertin, James P. Christie, Charles Dalton, decided to organize for the purpose of raising funds to take care of such problems. They became the founders and charter members of the Andover Boosters Club, Inc. Several carnivals later, sufficient funds were available to properly equip the football squad, and also, the Girl's Band. Basketball warm-up suits were provided to the high school team and transportation by bus was made available to fans following the activities of the basketball team in the Boston Garden Tech Tournament.

Spectators, attending football games at the Playstead, formerly stood in the mud because of a lack of seating. Bleachers were rented by the Boosters and, after many hours of scraping and painting, these bleachers were erected at the field. Soon after, the town purchased these bleachers, which incidentally, are still in use.

In 1952, the Boosters founded Andover Little League and a group of ardent Boosters laid out the main Little League diamond at the Playstead. Recognizing the need for its use in civic and athletic programs, funds were made available by the Boosters for the flagpole at the Playstead.

As the club grew, so did the thinking of its members. In 1953 a Scholarship Fund was set up with scholarships being awarded annually since to members of the graduating class of Andover High. The scholarships now total $1,500 yearly.

Census Bureau To Take Survey

Census Bureau representatives will take their quarterly survey of consumer buying and home improvement expectations in this area during October, according to James W. Turbitt, director of the bureau's regional office in Boston.

The survey is part of a nationwide effort to gather information used to guide Federal agencies and other groups in developing programs based on consumer spending patterns. A sample of residents in this area will be asked if they expect to buy a house, car, or major appliance during the next year and if they have made recent purchases of these items. Homeowners will be asked about home improvements and repairs during the last three months and any planned for the future.

In the most recent survey of the series, taken in July, families in the U. S. indicated that their plans to buy new cars were about the same as they had been a year earlier, but that expectations to buy houses were off sharply from a year earlier. The survey also showed a continued high level of expenditures for household durables.

Households in the sample to be surveyed are not identified. All answers are kept confidential by law, and information obtained will be published only as statistical totals.

TO PLAN DANCE

Andover Chapter 187 O.E.S. will have a ways and means meeting Oct. 15 at the home of Mrs. Gladys Brown, 3 Holly Terrace, at 7:30, to complete plans for a dance to be held at the Masonic Temple on October 31.

Blanchard House Open On Sunday

The Amos Blanchard House at 97 Main St., headquarters of the Andover Historical Society, will be open to visitors Sunday, Oct. 5, from 3 to 5 p.m.

This will inaugurate a series of special openings on the first Sunday of every month. The 150-year old barn, which has become a center of interest with its expanded collections of farm and household implements, will soon be closing for the winter months, but may still be viewed this Sunday, and until further notice at the regular visiting hours, Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, from 2 to 4 p.m.
